Rimkus Consulting Group Expands West Coast Presence with San Francisco Office

HOUSTON and SAN FRANCISCO (February 6, 2007) – Rimkus Consulting Group, a global leader in forensic consulting, today announced the addition of a San Francisco office. This location is the company's second California office as it expands to meet the demands of a rapidly growing client base.

From the San Francisco office, Rimkus will continue to offer the industry's broadest range of professional expertise by serving the diverse needs of the Northern California market. "The natural dynamics prevalent in Northern California, such as heavy rainfall, high winds, earthquakes, landslides, and wildfires, cause events that require the forensic expertise we provide," said Glen J. Pettibone, district manager for Rimkus Consulting Group. "Rimkus is one of the few companies that offers such a diverse range of highly experienced forensic experts."

A California native, Mr. Pettibone will manage the San Francisco office. Mr. Pettibone brings a proven track record of success in both forensic consulting and office management. During his two year tenure managing Rimkus' Los Angeles office, Mr. Pettibone oversaw the expansion of the company's southern California operations and more than tripled the company's revenue in the region.
